

FUTURE OF NATURE

Session I: September 15, 2016

Session II: January 27, 2017

Session III: April, 2017

" Securing a future for nature in an inclusive and viable way requires a blend of insight across the science/society interface. With this in mind, NCBS sets off this new series: The Future of Nature. The first set of lectures in this series focuses on the present, on three kinds of settings: the city, the forest and the sea. Each of these is undergoing significant shifts and changes. Our speakers all look at the present and ask if there are better ways forward embedded in the contemporary. Their insights will provide ample starting point for enriching discussions and on-going dialogues on the way forward. "

Speakers for Session I:

Harini Nagendra , Azim Premji University

Savyasaachi, Jamia Milia University

V. Geetha, Historian, Chennai

Session I

'The City, the Forest and the Sea'

September 15, 2016

10am to 4pm

Followed by a photography exhibition by Arati Rao

Dasheri Auditorium

National Centre for Biological Sciences, GKVK Campus,
Bellary Road, Bangalore

Curated by: Mahesh Rangarajan,
Jayshree Ratnam and Ajith Kumar

Host: Aparna U Banerjee

